

Depiction Studios is based out of Okemos, Michigan, and specializes in location portraiture and wedding coverage with nearly 40 years professional experience, including over 35 years as University photographer for Michigan State University.

As photographer, being a part of your wedding day is one of the most personal and enjoyable opportunities I can experience. I'll meet with you once or twice so I'll have a solid idea of your expectations. On your big day, I don't shoot from a list of planned photos. A small family group list is fine, but my style for the remainder of the day is to shoot spontaneous moments that can't be staged. A large part of my job as a professional is to stay out of your way as I capture the emotion and excitement. My goal is to tell the story of your wedding day, not direct it. I'll shoot only a few location portraits on your wedding day based on our pre-wedding conversations, minimizing lighting gear and using natural light whenever possible. We'll typically keep any portrait session quick, most times taking 30 minutes or less. You've got things to do!
